

English Springers bring home 'The Mail'!

● The use of pedigree dogs in advertising has always had great public appeal. The latest example of this is the 'family' of English Springer Spaniels which sit with great dignity holding their respective sections of 'The Mail on Sunday' newspaper. Photographed by Peter Lavery the dogs were provided by the well known Animals Unlimited Agency. The Mail on Sunday's advertising agents Saatchi and Saatchi kindly made the photographs available and for this we thank them. The English Springers belong to Jenny and Don Miller of Beaconview Kennels at Chivery near Tring, Herts. Left to right we have 3 year old Feorlig Our Song, 2 year old F Something Special with F Zaria and F Zoe at 4½ months. Zaria is, in fact, off to live in Italy on Sunday.

The finished product is a testimony to both human and canine patience as it took two full days to get the right shot! Below we feature one of the also rans! . . . "no Zoe . . . not through there!!"
